1987

Rob,
To a nice guy that I'm glad I've become better friends with (thank God). You're helped me to survive Bio poor locker mate and you've helped me through Chem - thanks. Good luck at St. Joe's - I'm sure you'll do fine! Best of luck always in everything you do!
Love,
Tammy

Rob,
To a great friend that I know for a long time!
Remember those old days of building models. Also Don't forget the fun times once in France with the girls and the Parties. Don't ever forget us working in cars and cooking at Thanksgiving a Xmas. Good luck in the future with everything you do and how you do it with.
Love,

The Class Of 1987
Presents
The Road To Success

Rob – To a fellow class play performer (what fun) and nice guy that I really only got the opportunity to know this year. Best of luck in college and may you hold a very successful future! RMH Love – Liz '89

Graduation is significantly more than the conclusion of the compulsory educational/social rituals that a students experiences. The past twelve years have developed and conditioned the character, standards, and thoughts of not only the individual student, but also the collective student body. This conclusive stage, however simultaneously celebrated and maligned it may be, is a landmark. The values and attitudes instilled in the graduating students in the past years will inexorably temper their futures. What directions they progress in now will comparitively depend on their scholastic past at Daniel Boone.

It is the mutual responsibility of all graduating students to weave their individual pathways, choose the route each prefers, and carve his or her own slot into the awful and fascinating real world. It is here in this real world that these passageways converge, intertwine and interlock. Deliberation and logic are crucial in navigating these thoroughfares; careful aim must be taken. Remove the paroxysmic choices, however, and you contradict everything life is for. Weigh them in the same balance.

The 1987 Orion is an extensive account of this near sacred period. The stamp of the society, persons and experiences of these strange days are recorded in color and detail, in untampered form. What you see is what you lived.

A Few Of The Future

Tim and Scott campaign for class clown.

Betsy, Lisa, and Chad are dumbstruck when asked to count in French.

The "fabulous five" plot their next mission against their opponent.

Scott questions the dependability of his deodorant.

Freshmen give their rendition of the Super Bowl Shuffle.

Scott gives his version of "Amadeus".

Mike waves to his fans!

John protects Kistin from an intruder.

Skip wonders if the sky is really falling.

Seventh graders are on the verge of a scientific breakthrough.

Beth says, "We gotta get out of this place!"

Sophomores really know how to "top-off" a party.

At left: Matt and Chris try to decide if it's alive or dead.

That Was Then . . .

Becky hopes it's not coal again this year.

Andy and Rob demonstrate proper restaurant etiquette.

Ann, Jen, and Amy show a bit of wishful thinking.

Lisa travels to the Corey Hart concert incognito.

We have come along way since the days of giddy slumber parties, intricate sand castles, and our unwavering belief in Santa Claus. These pages represent what was . . .

Mark asks, "Hey Champ, where's the rabbit?"

Fashion models, Rusty and Tracey, exhibit the latest in first grade school wear.

Ever since their Pinewood Derby victories, Jeff and Kevin have been "driving" us crazy.

Donna dreads the days when she'll have to potty train her baby.

Teri trains for her water polo debut in the 1988 Olympics.

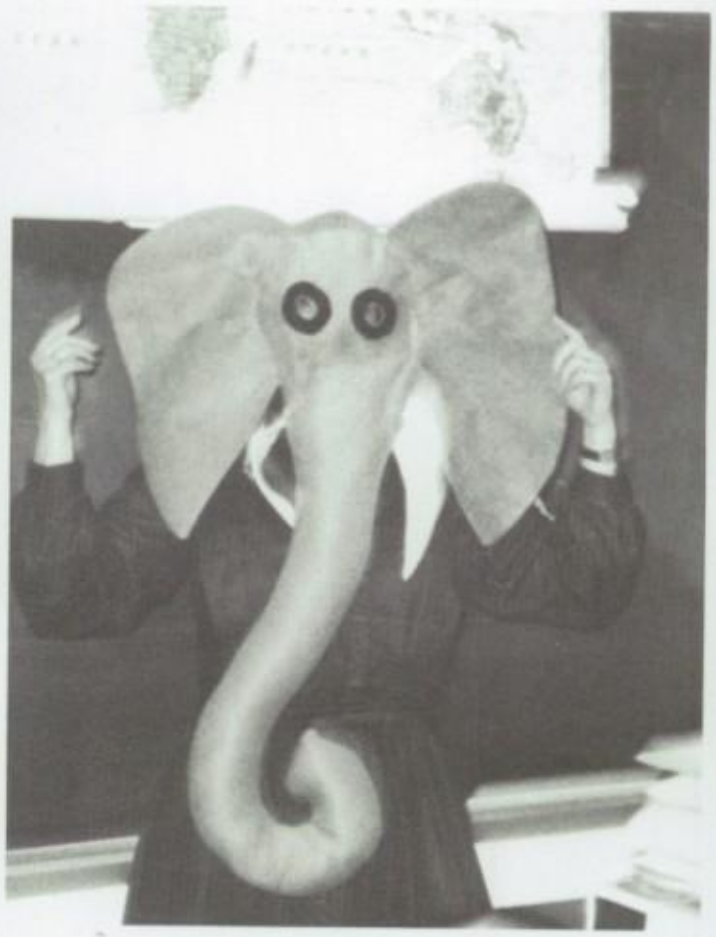
Todd warns, "Take it easy, Butchie. I'm digging a hole."

. . . On the 14th of September, the class of 1987 spent an eventful morning at the Rustic Picnic Area. Here we gathered with our friends and classmates and relived several hours of childhood fun!

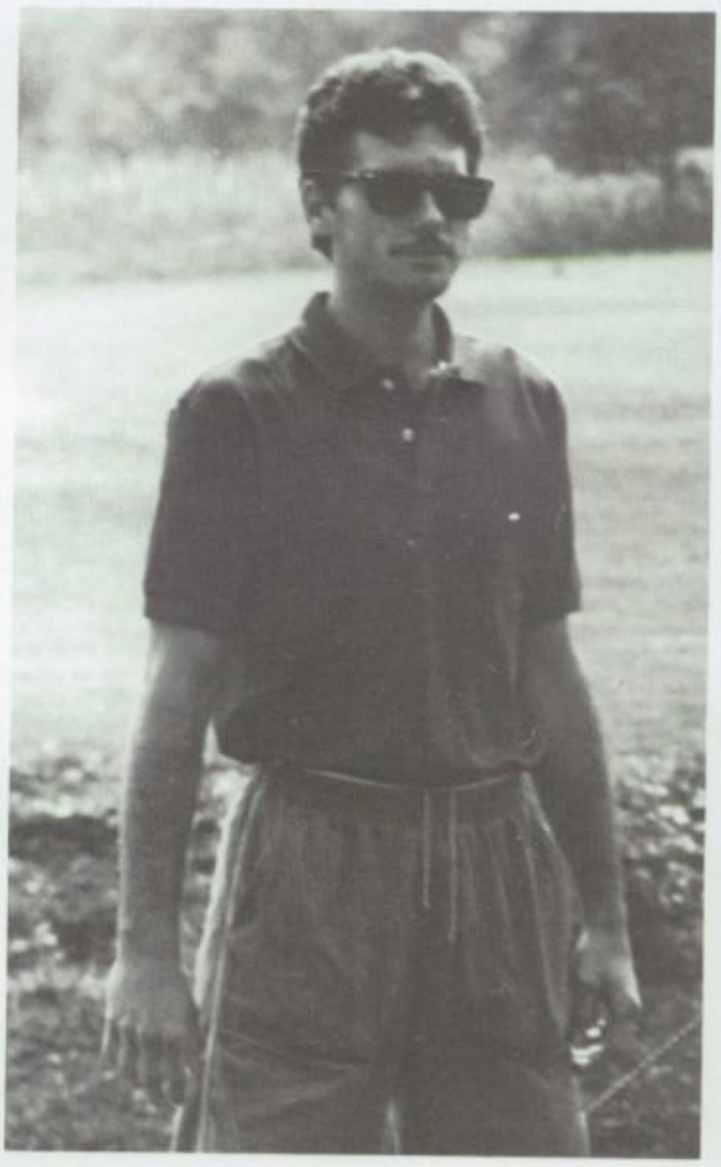
. . . This Is Now

Leftover Nixon supporters recite the famous words, "I am not a crook."

Victimized by a runaway A.V. cart, Mrs. Hill awaits her lawyer.



Mrs. Klinger refuses to work for peanuts.



F.B.I. head surveillance agent, Mr. Bossler, keeps tabs on D.B. field day atheletes.

DB Administers Quality Leadership

We, the class of 1987, would like to extend a cordial welcome to our new superintendant, Dr. Rita S. Jones. Dr. Jones completed her undergraduate studies at Ohio State University. Her position as a third grade teacher at an Ohio elementary school unexpectedly evolved into a principalship within five years. After her tenure as a principal, Dr. Jones transferred to the position of assistant superintendent at Downingtown High School. As a result of her superb record of high motivation and commendable success, Dr. Jones was hired to be our superintendant here at Daniel Boone. We are truly lucky to have Dr. Jones with us and hope that her time spent at Daniel Boone is productive and worthwhile.

Dr. Jones proudly surveys her new domain.

DB Secretaries Are Our "Type"

District Secretaries (L to R) C. Delp, J. Alderman, P. Levengood, R. Long.

Mrs. Neiman accidentally waters her desk drawer while she copes with a phone message.

Mrs. Hart wonders if she really should disturb Mr. Brotschul again.

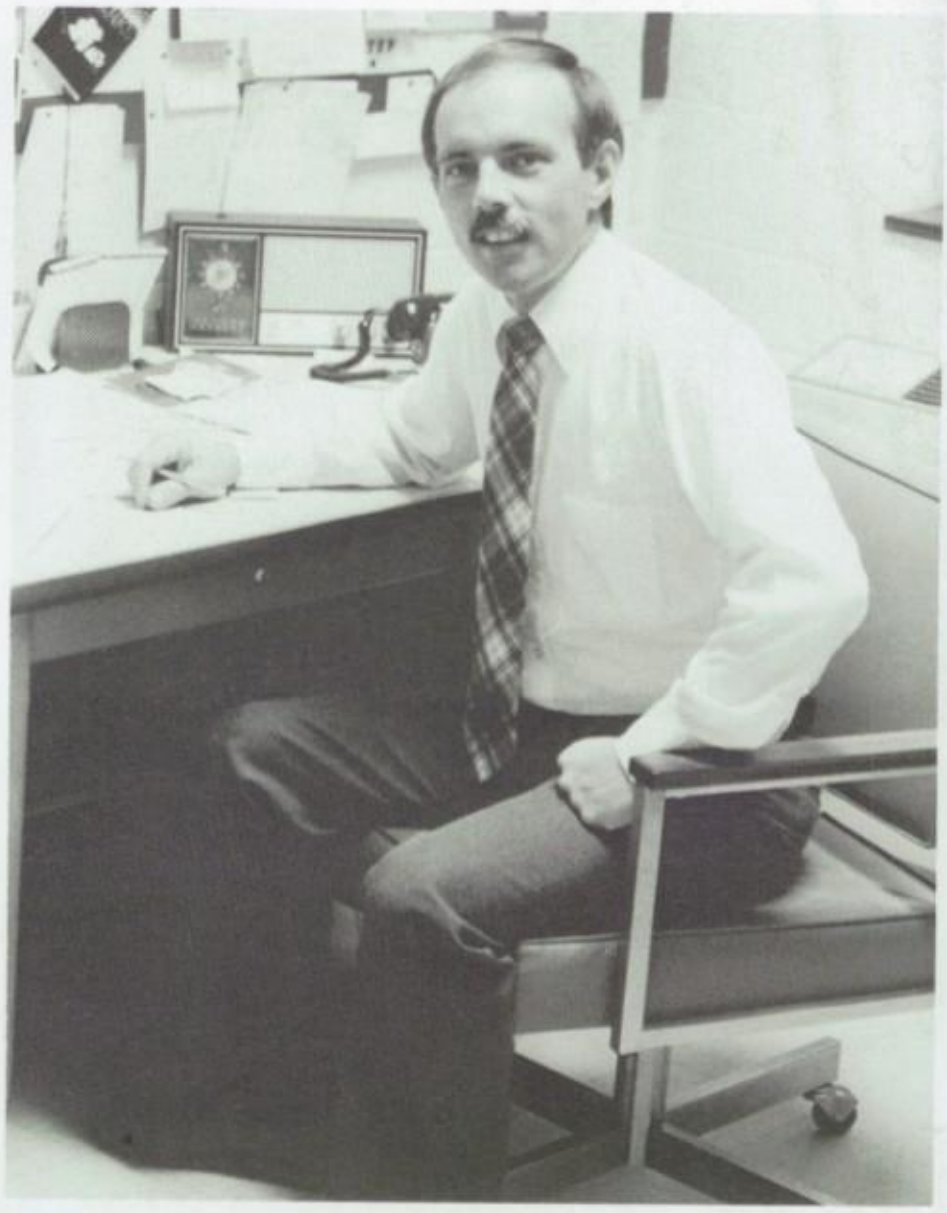
Secretaries: Row 1 (L to R) C. Neiman, S. Gallagher, L. Maccarone, Row 2 (L to R) T. Swisher, N. Hart, S. Weaver, J. Detweiler.

On behalf of the Class of 1987, the Orion staff would like to express their respect and gratitude to the office personnel for their time and service. Most students never take the time to appreciate our secretaries, who perform many valuable duties that keep the school running. In the Sr. High Office, the secretaries do such essential tasks as taking all telephone messages, typing letters, processing orders for supplies, and compiling a list of absentees every day. In between these regular jobs, they also find time to provide polite services to students, teachers, and visitors. The secretaries in the district office are in charge of the school district's payroll and bookkeeping, as well as the data processing necessary to print report cards. Because they do so much for us all, we say, "thank you!"

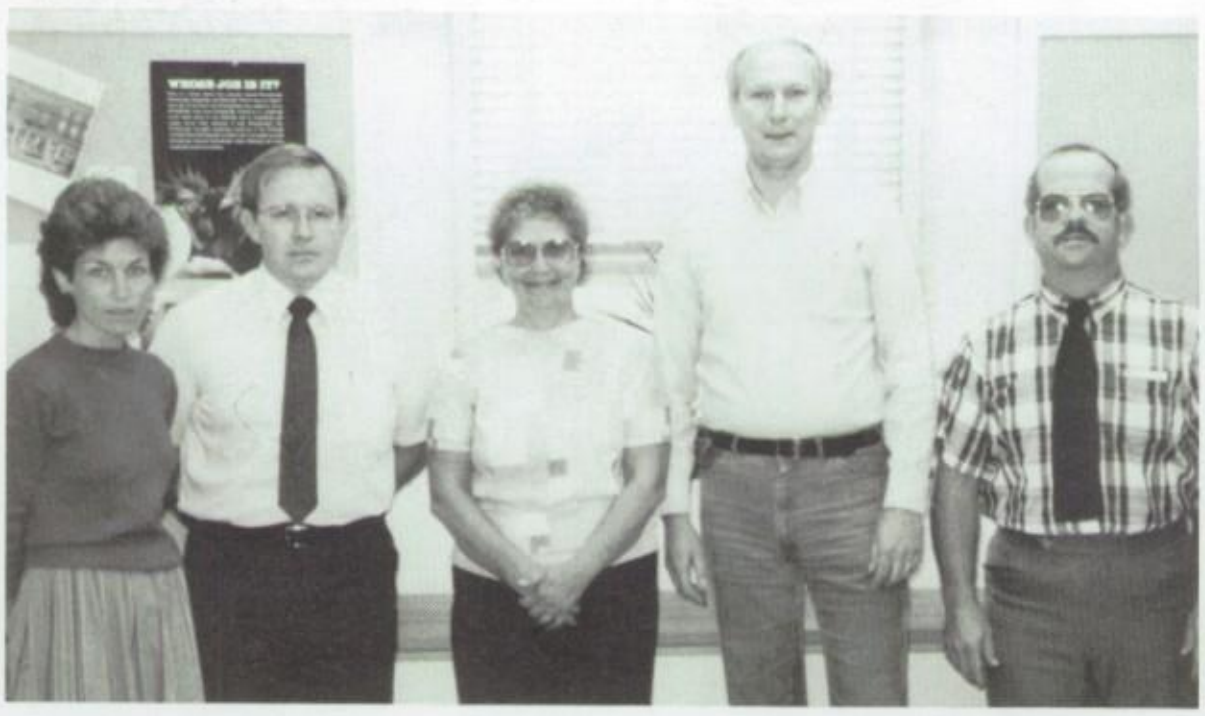
Guidance And Special Education Open The Doors For The Future!

Frustrated, Mrs. Levengood revises someone's schedule for the fourth time.

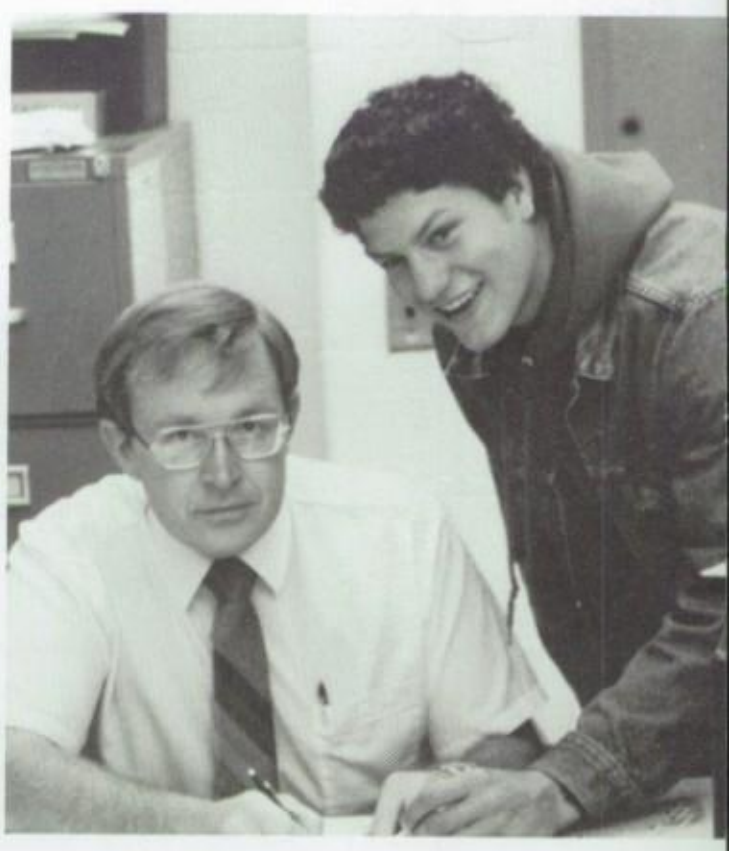
Mrs. Hutchinson and Mr. Swisher chuckle at the seniors' SAT scores.



As usual, Mr. Swisher is up to no good.



(L. to R) Shelly Weiler, James Molleca, Nancy Swoyer, John Mieczkowski, Oscar Boyer.



John tries to convince Mr. Molleca to allow him to correct his own paper.

Hard Work And Home Cooking

Mr. Heist . . . A messy desk is a sign of a clean mind.

What would we do without you?!! You have helped put together many school activities that could not have been done otherwise. Without your late night help, there would be no meetings and no band concerts; without your weekend dedication, there would be no football games. We thank you for making our school a place we can be proud of. We respect your work and take great pride in your accomplishments.

Mildred and Mary work hard to feed the hungry masses at Daniel Boone.

To the cafeteria ladies: we thank you for your pleasant smiles, your courtesy, and your willingness to help us at any time. We appreciate all of the time you devoted to making our day just a little happier.

The Sign Guys, Danny & Jimmy, are evidence of Student Council's creativity.

Not even lunch is sacred for Mr. Tobias's "emergency" Student Council meetings.

The Student Council, led by advisor Mr. Tobias, is the most influential and active student organization in the school. They organize and carry out such tasks as letters to Santa, Teacher Appreciation Week, Senior Appreciation Day, Carnation Day, and a variety of other special activities. The immense number of projects Student Council undertakes is essential in making our school truly special. One of the most interesting programs is Spirit Week. This year's days included class color, backwards, clash, toga, and blue and white day. This week brings out the bizarre as well as the Blazer pride in all of us.

Thought Provoking Clubs

Lead by Mrs. Lenhart, the Science Club worked diligently on many projects. They participated in the Science Fair, held on February 4 at Daniel Boone. They are presently striving to implement three name label plaques for assorted shrubberies around our school, trivia projects, and demonstrations.

The Science Club works closely with the Ecology Club. With their advisor, Mrs. Sassaman, they are successfully working towards making the school's two ponds into an environmental study location for the Science Class. They also entered a float in the homecoming parade. These two Science Clubs give students a chance to utilze their special abilities and knowledge, and explore their interests in Science.

This year Daniel Boone welcomed back one of its most entertaining activities. For the first time in years, our school provided a Drama Club for those students who have an interest in theater. Officers of the group were: Reggie Nealy, President; Judy Nealy, Vice President; Elizabeth Borneman, Secretary; Karin Ludwig, Treasurer. The club's first major project was the presentation of the musical "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," a comedy based on Charles M. Schultz's popular comic strip "Peanuts." A second, more serious show was performed for the public in the spring. Drama Club advisor Mark Drey predicts that his group will become a permanant part of the school's cultural activities.

Mrs. Wagner delivers her welcome to N.H.S. inductees.

Top: Kimberly Beck, Wendy Davis, John Huffman, Kistin Rowe, Jennifer Beistline. Bottom: Tracy McMullen, Amol Shah, Guy Widner, Anne Wert, Crystal Parikh, Amy Levengood.

This year the National Honor Society welcomed eleven members at the induction banquet. These inductees were chosen based on their qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, and service. All members must maintain a GPA of at least 90%. Membership is an honor. It also incurs a responsibility to continue to demonstrate those qualities that resulted in their selection. NHS is an integral part of a school's existence and will continue to thrive here.

During the induction ceremony, candles representing each of the four characteristics of an NHS member were lit. Each officer expounded on one of these topics.

It's hard to tell who enjoys the dinner more, the senior citizens or the cafeteria ladies.

A happy senior citizen tells Santa what he wants for Christmas this year.

Backed by the Birdsboro Rotary Club, the Interact Club is primarily a community service organization. Each year, the Interact Club assists the Rotary in organizing a very successful Birdsboro Halloween Parade. The Christmas Banquet, sponsored by Interact, provided great joy for all members involved, and it was especially festive for the Senior Citizens. Under the supervision of the Club's advisor, Mr. John Hartline, the annual volleyball Marathon provides moneys for the Interact Scholarship Fund and other activities the club sponsors.

FBLA Conducts Business With Class

On a trip to Washington, D.C., FBLA members wait for their turn to see the Capitol.

FBLA, Future Business Leaders of America, is comprised of business students from grades 9 through 12. In the spring the members compete with other club members in the region by testing their business skills. Under the direction of Mr. Jacobs, FBLA worked hard to reward its members with a trip to New York City at the end of the year. FBLA earned most of its money for this excursion by running the Student Store. This organization helps prepare their members for a successful business career.

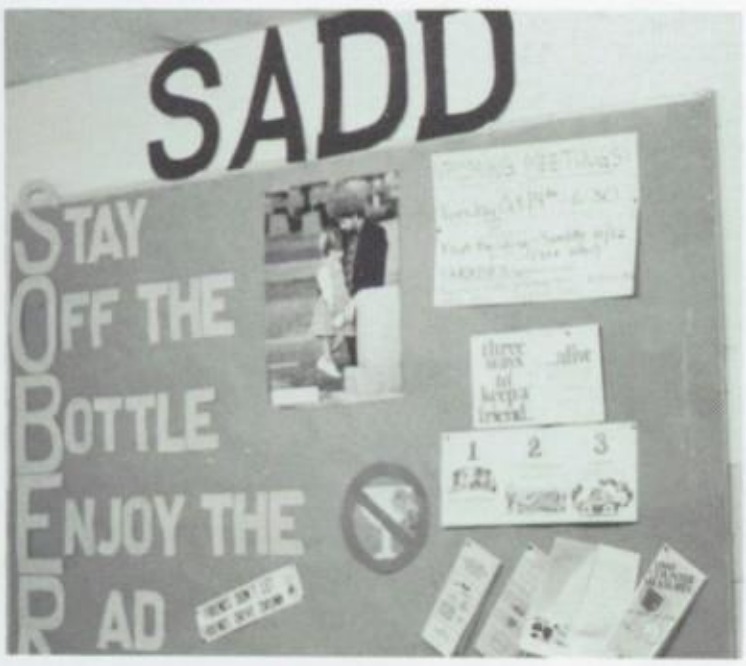
S.A.D.D.: A Tragic Necessity

Drinking and driving strikes even the most innocent.



SADD conveys its message to the Daniel Boone student body.

Don't drink and drive; you might get a visit from someone you don't want to see.

*S*tudent *A*gainst *D*riving *D*runk is a growing national movement dedicated to advancing self-awareness in our society of the grave issue of drunken driving. The Daniel Boone chapter, guided by Mrs. Kutz, has made several local efforts to educate the surrounding community and prevent the fatal mixture from occuring. Active since 1985, SADD has used public announcements and speeches coupled with definite and disturbing graphic themes in the form of posters and parade floats to convey their signifigant message. An effective organization, the endeavors of SADD will continue to carry an impact and purpose.

SADD: Row 1: J. Fecera, A. Rutter, Mrs. Kutz, (Advisor), J. Chaplin, S. Rickert. Row 2: K. Kreiger, M. Kilareski, J. Raber, J. Levengood, T. Myers, M. Walsky, M. Jameson, A. Angelo, J. Wert, T. Students Accept Challenges And Gain Valuable Experience

Lisa and Melodie audition for parts in General Hospital.

Mike explores the electronic nature of Pop Tarts.

Vo-Techers are ecstatic to learn that they have two pages in the yearbook.

Having made a terrible mistake Jacqui and Tammy fear being thrown in Mr. Witman's closet.

Scott's beautiful singing voice delights the rest of the bus.

Kevin attemps to print out his computer date.

Tami sits back and tries to relax while watching the soaps.

When students reach ninth grade they have several options to consider. Many students choose Vo-Tech. Vo-Tech provides for occupational training in a variety of interesting fields such as: Cosmetology, Data Processing, Carpentry, Electronics, and Architectural Drafting. Students begin their training with theory lectures in their first year and continue with actual hands-on training experience in their second year. This experience leads them to real job situations in their third year. Upon completion of their Vo-Tech training, students are prepared for the challenges that will face them in the future.

Penny is discouraged when Jenny finds yet another gray hair.

Mr. Goodwrench, James Orr, puts his skills to the test.

Vo-Tech also offers membership to their vocational clubs: VICA, HOSA, and HERO. When one joins one of these clubs, he has the opportunity to compete against other vocational schools in regional, state, and national competitions. This challenge is open to students with above average grades. Vo-Tech allows one to explore his interests and provides for a rewarding experience.

Sophomores anxiously await the okay to head for the food tables.

Five connoisseurs express their approval of the foreign cuisines.

Jennie and Tricia masquerade as senoritas in search of a handsome senor.

Several years ago Daniel Boone's foreign language teachers established three language clubs: German, French, and Spanish. The clubs allow the foreign language students to explore cultures and traditions of European lands.

Once a year, all three language clubs come together to celebrate a dinner. Each club makes culinary delights that relate to their culture. This "International Dinner" is held in the spring in the school cafeteria, which is decorated by each club. It gives each language club the opportunity to express its culture through the types of food that are indigenous to that language. The International dinner gives one the opportunity to explore the heritage of our ancestors.

Thought Provoking: DBYEA And UN

DBYEA members do the can-can.

Volunteers cheerfully accept toys and games for needy children.

The Daniel Boone Youth Education Association is a service club that provides help for the community and school. Headed by Miss Rhude, DBYEA has grown and prospered over the years. At Christmas its members held a tea for faculty and administrators. The Toys for Tots Dance and a Canned Goods Dance collected many toys and food stuffs for the benefit of under priviledged families. All of DBYEA's undertakings have been quite successful and beneficial to the community as a whole. Keep up the good work.

The United Nations Club, advised by Mr. Remley and Mrs. Bigelow, has steadily increased its membership over the past several years and, reaching an all-time high this year. The participates in this international political organization gain experience in their forensic skills and come to a greater realization of the importance of current world events. At the model U.N. conferences, four students represent a nation and its foreign policy, each one on a different sub-committee. In addition to the intellectual aspect, the club experienced actual political workings when they travelled to Washington, D.C. and the State Department, with funds from their dance in January. The U.N. Club is an exercise in ethnocentricity breakdown.

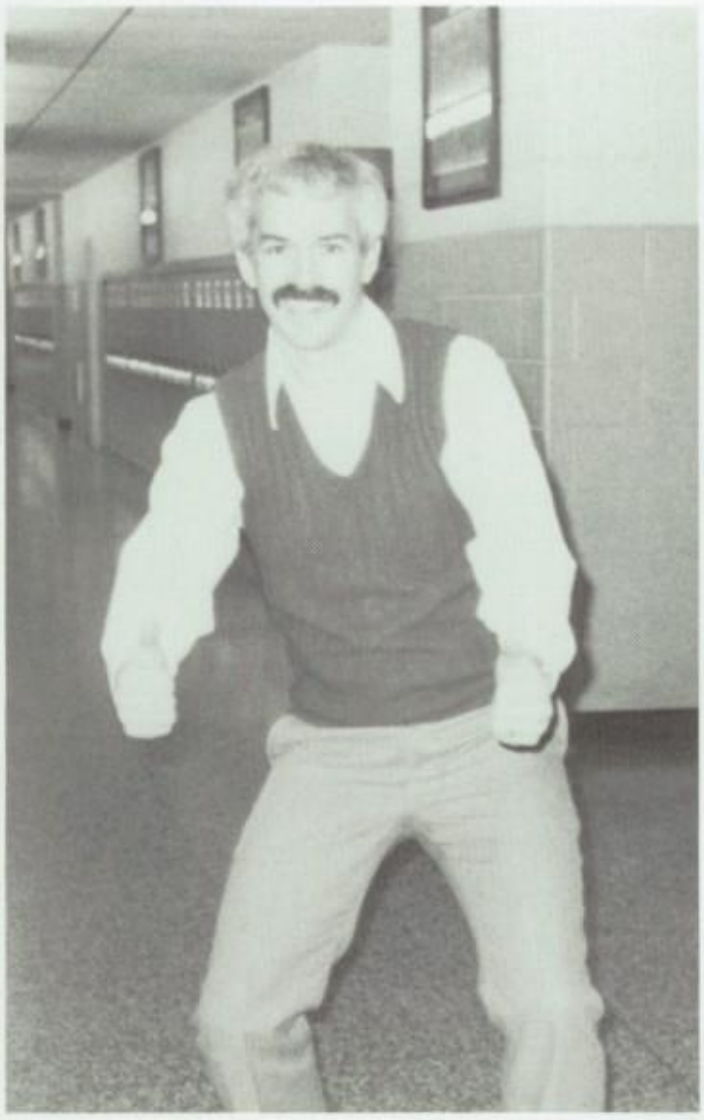
Heather leaves her mark on the literature of Daniel Boone.

They are a silent group, but that is their job. They are our library assistants who sign out our books in the mad rush at the end of each period and give up their study halls to help the library run efficiently. We thank these quiet but responsible students.

The stage crew did not have an auditorium or stage on which they could render their services; however, the stage crew did provide many services for the school. They helped set up for various assemblies and special meetings; there was actually more work involved because of the absence of a stage and auditorium. The school year progressed much more smoothly with the help of these students.

On The Set

Literary Geniuses



Mr. Levan's enthusiasm cannot be contained as he rushes towards the typing room with a big scoop.

The newspaper staff, led by Mr. Levan, worked for hours after school to give the student body a paper well worth reading. It included new and controversial topics and the opportunity for students to express any feelings in "Boone Babblings." The newspaper hit an all time high on quality with movie reviews, music reviews, student essays and high quality writing by the staff. This year proved to be exciting and profitable for the newspaper.

This years literary magazine, The Powderhorn, was written by individual students and put together by Miss Herr. This in-school magazine gives students a chance to express their literary genius. It gives aspiring young writers the opportunity to be heard.

Members of the court set the mood!

On February 13, 1987, the Student Council sponsored a very exciting Valentine's Dinner and Dance. After enjoying a delicious meal featuring stuffed chicken, everyone adjourned to the dance floor with their "special someone." The climax occured when everyone met in the center of the dance floor for the announcement of the King and Queen of Hearts. The winners were . . . Eric Mull and Becky Sutton.

The ninth grade also chose a court. This court consisted of Kaiya Campbell and Jen Carmen, Chad Moletress and Kelly Kulp, John Groth and Heather Massey, Brent Knerr and Leslie Pregel, and Matt Kennedy and Leigh Hoinski. This court also crowned a prince and princess. John Groth and Heather Massey were selected as the 1987 Valentine's Prince and Princess.

The dance featuring the two courts provided a culmination to a night of excitement and romance.

Varsity Club Ties Past And Present Together

This year's Varsity Club, under the direction of Mr. Booth, was very active. The members, all of whom earned a varsity letter, planned all the Homecoming activities. They also introduced the "Wall of Fame" as a new tradition at Daniel Boone. Because of their outstanding achievements in sports at Daniel Boone, Page Lutz and Dennis Mountz were the first recipients of this prestigous award. Coach Shuey had the distinctive honor of presenting Page with her plaque while Les Mountz accepted the award from Mr. Weaver on behalf of his brother Dennis.

Homecoming is always a charged series of events celebrated by underclassmen, seniors, and graduates unified by one of the year's most animated outpourings of school spirit. The cooperative efforts of the Varsity Club and the boosters organized the Friday night bonfire, Saturday morning parade, and football and hockey games, presenting the community and student population alike with these invigorating events. The successful dance following the crowning of Rebecca Sutton as the 1986 Homecoming Queen was the paramount climax of the day's festivities.

Becky rises to stardom during the pageant's opening number.

What is a Junior Miss? A Junior Miss is someone who possesses the qualities of charm, poise, and promise. Becky possessed all these qualities as our Junior Miss representative. On October 4, 1986 Becky competed against 19 other contestants for the Junior Miss title. Participants were judged on a personal interview, physical fitness, poise and appearance, scholastic achievement, and the creative and performing arts. Becky received much support and plenty of flowers and "good lucks" from her friends and classmates.

Rebecca Sutton, class treasurer, Homecoming Queen and active member of nine extracurricular activities, was designated by the senior class and faculty to receive the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizenship Award. Especially qualified, Becky has demonstrated exceptional leadership, dependability, service, and patriotism not only through her scholastic achievements, but also through her social efforts: over the summer, she completed a March of Dimes internship in the obstetric and pediatric departments of Community General Hospital and participated in the field hockey events of the Keystone Games at Penn State University. Becky's fervent dedication to the school and community makes her the singular choice for this respectable distinction.

Matt knows how to kick - - -!

This year's marching unit had a spectacular season. Our Blazer band gave their audiences an idea of just how much can be done with a little band and a lot of spirit. Hours of effort by the unit members and directors resulted in a brilliant show, which was performed at every football game and in competition. A fantastic performance at Northern Lehigh's Patterns in Sound earned the unit a "Superior" rating, the highest possible in the judging system. At the Boyertown Cavalcade of the Bands, D.B.'s band claimed a rating of "Excellent." They continued their season with a fun-filled exhibition appearance at the Reading Showcase. The constant support of the unit directors, Mr. Joseph McTamany, Miss Mary Kaye Rhude, and Miss Karen Shriner, was an indispensable factor in this successful season.

Hardwork + Dedication + Teamwork = PRIDE!!!

As the band boarded the bus at the exhilarating hour of 7:00 a.m. their thoughts were of sunny days with Mickey, Donald, and Goofey, not of the next twenty-four hours of truck stop food, non-descript gas stations, and endless hours of nothingness. The band survived that ordeal and went on to perform brilliantly at Cypress Gardens, spend an unforgettable day at Disney World, slip and slide at Wet 'n' Wild, and enjoy a wet but fun filled evening with the fish at Sea World. When the band piled off the bus four days later their hearts were filled with pride and unforgettable memories.

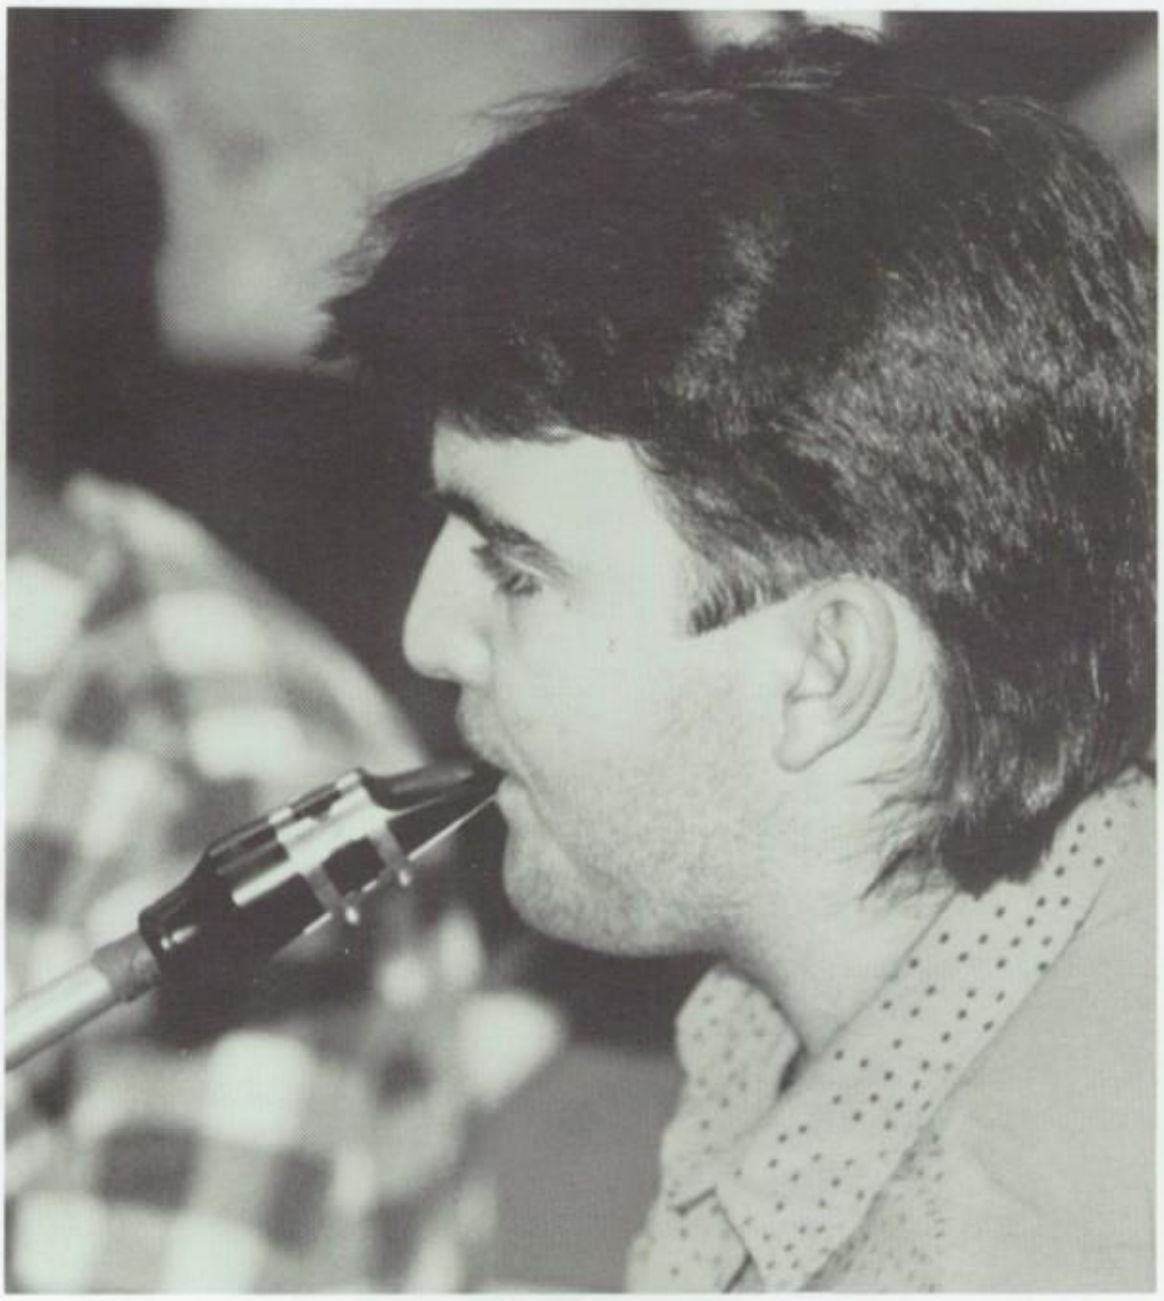
Band Brilliance



Matt and Greg play "mirror images" . . .

The senior concert band and senior stage band are the two instrumental groups available to musicians in grades nine through twelve during the winter and spring seasons. The stage band is a competitive music organization, attending adjudication festivals where the group is rated on essential elements of the performance. During the 1987 season, the Frontiersmen, in addition to hosting the Sounds Spectacular Jazz Festival, traveled to Conrad Weiser, Northern Leigh, and Northampton. The concert band is a more formal performance group; it does not compete. This year's program was a presentation of a variety of styles from gospel rock to processional marches, including an original composition written and arranged by the band's director, Mr. Joseph McTamany. Both groups rehearsed diligently throughout the season to prepare for the annual spring concert.

As they make this progress the students participate in parades, concerts, and other community performances.

Our Vocalists Have Choral Charisma

The Senior Choir and Chorale consists of diligent vocalists who practice throughout the year to perform at a variety of functions. Their flowing lyrics can be heard at the Christmas and Spring concerts. In addition to these grand occasions, the choir and chorale also make appearances at events such as the Senior Citizens Banquet, St. Michael's Church, an assembly at the Roosevelt Elementary Building, and the Berkshire Mall. To provide additional training in the singing and dancing techniques needed for show choir, a special workshop called the Annual Pop/Jazz Festival is sponsored by our school for our choir and several visiting choirs. The spirit of Daniel Boone High School comes alive each and every time the choir and chorale walk onto the stage. Their dedication provides their audiences with great entertainment and lasting memories of talent.

Singers Tip The "Scales" In Their Favor

The members of the senior choir, Liz Borneman and Anne Wert, earned places in county, district, and regional choruses this year. Early in the fall the girls auditioned for county and districts. The county chorus performed in January at Schuylkill Valley High School in a concert with the county band and orchestra. For district chorus, Anne and Liz stayed with host families in the Fleetwood High School Area for the three days when they were rehearsing and performing. While they were at districts the two vocalists auditioned for regional chorus and earned places in that extremely prestigious group. The regional chorus performed a concert in early April at Pocono Mountain High School. At the rehearsals for this concert, Anne and Liz tried for positions in state chorus, furthering their own accomplishments and earning even greater honor for their school.

Masters Of Music

When it is necessary to present all aspects of the music program in a few pages, it is only too natural to focus on the work and dedication of the students — the performers in the spotlight — but this excludes part of the soul of a performance. This time and space dedicated to the contributions of our directors is essential to giving a full view of what it really means to be part of a music activity at Daniel Boone.

Along with the normal responsibilities associated with being the senior high band director, Mr. Joseph McTamany put in extra time to design the marching band show on his own, a job many directors leave to a professional show coordinator. He also composed original pieces and wrote arrangements tailored to the instrumentation in the marching, stage and concert bands.

Miss Karen Shriner opened up her first year as assistant marching band director with a rush of spirit. Her valuable criticism at rehearsals and her famous pre-performance pushed the whole marching unit to be its very best.

In the position of front director, Miss Mary Kaye Rhude concerned herself as much with the outer appearance of her group's pride and spirit as she did with the inner feelings.

Mrs. Linda Texter Behler held the responsibility of directing the junior high instrumental groups. With the patience needed to control energetic junior high students at after school rehearsals, she led those young musicians through the preparation for many performances.

Mrs. Deborah Weinhold, head of the choral program in the high school, was always busy dealing with the activities of the junior chorus and the senior choir and chorale. She put much energy into teaching the choreography to the show choir for the spring concert.

Because they all possess dedication, spirit and the precious ability to instruct, these five people hold the respect of the Daniel Boone music students. Because they go beyond the absolutely necessary and contribute that special extra effort, we take the time to return the favor and let them know that we noticed . . .

Inspired . . . This is the best word to describe the Seniors who have participated in musical activities. The Class of 1987 has produced performers who were inspired to go to endless practices, to wear less than attractive uniforms, and to perform for their peers in winds, rain, and with no auditorium. They were inspired to bring home awards, to fill auditoriums, to travel to other states, and to make Daniel Boone an honorable musical name. They were inspired by pride, education, and excellence. Their music brought them together, built lasting friendships, and created unforgettable memories. They were truly a group inspired, and in being inspired they have become an inspiration . . .

Despite a disappointing record, the Blazer Football Team "Never Said Die." Aided by Mark DiMarco and a defense that always played to win, the Blazers made an interesting outing of every game. The offense, under the guidance of senior quarterback Eric Mull, was slow out of the blocks, but the hard work and ambition of the offensive line started the offense moving in the second half of the season. With help from Lin Erb and Dave Groth, Mull's passing game came alive. Spirited running by Brett Tschudy provided an unrelenting ground game. Though only compiling a 3-7 record overall, the Blazers never gave up. Just ask Exeter. The Blazers gave the Eagles all they could handle. The Blazers lost to Exeter, but the spirit and compassion that they showed proved to everyone that the Blazers were winners.

The Daniel Boone Varsity Hockey team completed yet another successful season. Their season was filled with many new achievments to add to their already lengthy list. The Lady Blazers captured their third division title by defeating Wyomissing 2-1. The Blazers moved into county competition and reached the championship but dropped a tough 4-0 loss to Fleetwood. However, the Blazers qualified for the District III tournament, where they won four straight games. The fourth victory, over Northern Lebanon County, 2-0, clinched the District III title. This is the first district title ever brought home by any Blazer team. Their last win qualified them for the state tournament which was held in Shippensburg. The Blazers are ranked as one of the top four teams in the state AA class. The girls had an entourage of diehard supporters. The JV hockey team played a major role in cheering the varsity onto victory. Faithful parents, friends, and occasionally the football team urged the Lady Blazers onto victory. Congratulations to a super team and the best of luck to future Blazer stickers.

The 1986 Junior Varsity Field Hockey Team was undefeated as they finished their season with a record of 8-0-4. This is an outstanding achievement considering the team is largely comprised of freshmen. Coach Meg Stanger with the aid of captains Angie Grillo and Leigh Hoinski, proved that practice makes perfect. As the season progressed, along with their newly aquired talent, the team became true Daniel Boone hockey players. Throughout the season they supported the varsity team and showed great enthusiasm and spirit. These combined attributes will lead to many successful seasons for years to come. This very special group of girls will always be remembered by their varsity teammates for their thoughtfulness and sincerity.

D B Harriers Set The Pace

The boys Cross Country team, coached by Mr. Weaver, ran successfully to a 10-5 record overall this year. They were led by Byron Emory, the top point man, and Sean Barbabella. The boys appear to be in contention for the top spot in their league next year. 1986 also marked the inception of our first competing girls cross country team here at Daniel Boone. Although their record was 3-7 each runner improved with every match, and we look forward to an extremely strong team next year as all members of the team will be back. Jen Clifford was the top point scorer for the Lady Blazers while setting a new course record, placing 15th in the District III run, and becoming a Berks All-Star selection.

Blazers Drive To Sharpen Their Skills

The 1986 Golf Team turned in a record of 2 wins and 8 loses. The team's spirit and determination were always great, but they were not able to out-drive their tough competition. This year's highlight was the advancement of two players to Districts: Chad Collingwood and Judy Nealy! All but one member of the team will be coming back next year. Next year's team looks very promising.

DB Rebounds From Bad Beginning

The 1986-87 Varsity Basketball Team learned the meaning of "hanging in there" this year. Coached by Mr. Marshall, who was assisted by Mr. Simmons, the team never gave up despite a losing season. The team picked up their first victory against Twin Valley behind the leadership of the captains, Jeff Clifford and Lin Erb. The other starters included seniors, Tony Grillo, Todd Peterson, and Jon Griffiths, and Junior Henry Herbine. Despite a losing record, the team still displayed hustle, desire, and pride.

SCORE!

This year was a building year for the Junior Varisty Basketball Team. The team had several first year players. They lost some big games in the beginning of the season. However, under the direction of Mr. Simmons, the boys learned quickly. The team did nothing but improve, winning several big games down the stretch. Six of the twelve boys had to play both J.V. and varsity. Mike Smith, Skip Shuey, Amol Shah, Troy Luitrell and Vinny LaScala were key players for this year's J.V. team, and they should be big varsity contributors next year.

What Can We Say They're Awesome

The Girl's Varsity Basketball Team had a successful season. That is at the least a gross understatement of fact. The team compiled an undefeated division record of 10-0. The season was filled with milestones for the team and individuals. Wendy Davis reached a personal milestone that few have achieved. Wendy scored the 1000th point of her career in her junior year. The girl's coach also reached a milestone. In the team's 56-48 victory over Hershey in the District playoffs, coach Paul Shuey earned his 100th victory; the team and community take pride in his accomplishment.

JV's Bounce To Another Victory

The Junior Varsity Girls Basketball team had a very successful season this year under the leadership of Mrs. Lykens. The Lady Blazers were led by freshmen Beth Moore, Leslie Pregel, Leigh Hoinski, and Heather Massey. Also contributing were sophomores Lisa Auman, Val Barbon, and Teri March. Hopefully this experience will give Daniel Boone Girls Basketball the winning tradition for many years to come.

Many believe that strong junior high programs contribute to the recent success of the girls' basketball organization. Coaches Shriner and McCabe will readily agree. The girls work very hard at each practice to perfect the skills that will be so important at the senior high level. Tammy Mohr led her team to a winning season and everyone is optimistic that the winning tradition for girls' sports at Boone will continue.

JV Wrestlers Make Their Move

A group of enthusiastic and determined young men, the Junior Varsity Wrestling Squad exhibited future potential during this year's trying season. Coached by Mr. Doug Weaver, this hard-working team strived to achieve the high goals set during the season and attained self-satisfaction on the individual level. Although the team won relatively few matches, it fostered a supreme effort. It was this effort which created a notable season.

This year's Junior High Wrestling team enjoyed a very successful season. They won their division with an overall record of 13 wins and one loss and an undefeated division record of 8 wins and 0 losses. The entire team turned in a very impressive season. There are, however, a few people who should be recognized for their achievements. Todd Richard (125 lbs) had an individual record of 15-2 and finished second in the County Tournament. Kent Moyer (180 lbs) placed second in the County Tournament. Mark Huffman (75 lbs) had a record of 15-3 and finished third in the County Tournament. J.D. Shaffer (90 lbs) finished with a record of 15-3. This year's team maintained the streak of winning wrestling seasons that Daniel Boone has enjoyed for several years, and next year should prove to be no different.

Their Spirit Has No Limit

This year's varsity squad consisted of one senior, two juniors, three sophomores, and three freshmen. They were Karen Badinger, Treena Anderson, Teri Heisey, Sherry Cooper, Kristianne Logan, Stacy Schollenberger, Jennifer Carman, Kelly Kulp and Jennifer Weller.

The cheerleaders continued to make use of a mascot. Marianne Yanos served as this cheerful addition to the Blazer sideline.

In addition to cheering at games, these girls took to their construction paper and magic markers to decorate the hallways and the players' lockers. These extra undertakings were demonstrative of the girls enthusiastic support for their teams.

The spirited group cheering for the JV team included Beth Simmons, Michelle Powers, Allison McKinney, Karen Lemp, Stacy Derr, Lisa Davidheiser, Kathryn Turgeon, Noel Riggs and Shelly Schollenberger.

During her second year as advisor, Miss Natalie Happel did a fine job leading both groups. Assisting her were Karen Badinger, captain of the varsity squad, and Allison McKinney, captain of the jayvees.

Throughout the season, the wrestling cheer leaders presence could be felt at the matches! The wrestling team entered each bout by way of a colorful banner supplied by the girls. During his turn on the mat, each wrestler received cheers of support from the sidelines, and if a pin resulted from the Blazer's efforts, he was awarded a safety pin as a symbol of his success. These girls worked diligently to spread BLUE PRIDE throughout the school.

This year's Varsity Boy's Bowling team had a record of 10 wins and 32 losses; the Junior Varsity team had a record of eight wins and 31 losses- not a winning season-but do not let their records deceive you. The team sent five bowlers, Rob Shane, Joel Zieber, Mike McCue, Chris Garner and Tom Schaeffer, to compete in the county tournament. Joel Zieber led the team with an average of 175. Fortunately, the team is very young. Consequently, the experience gained this year will help them in the future.

This year's Girl's Bowling team finished second in its division with a record of 23 wins and 19 losses. Lisa Shaner led the team with an average of 174. Lisa Shaner also tied for the high score in the league with a 235. Susan Blacketter tied for the second high school with a 234. A Seventh Grade Perspective

I bound off of the bus with both a tinkle of expectation and a feeling of reservation. My brand new book bag is safe at my side as I open the door onto the foreboding enigma of high school. I carefully follow my precise map to homeroom, weaving constantly to avoid contact with the mamoth upperclassmen. The homeroom teacher is nice, but I'm still skeptical until I see the familiar faces of elementary school buddies. The next hurdle to bound is my locker. After receiving the combination and making several attempts at opening it I finally get the knack and instantaneously become an expert. "The initial shock is probably the worst," I convince myself, and it proves true. During the year I make many new friends, learn to forget all about recess because of study halls, and learn to appreciate a lunch were I don't have to eat the vegetables. It wasn't so bad after all as I look back on my seventh grade year.

Eighth Grade Faces Caught In Action

Tammy wonders if her friends are ever going to win her that stuffed banana.

Unbeknownst to many, Wham has changed members and gone undercover in Birdsboro.

Stacy prepares for her fourth period Algebra class.

Colleen doesn't get mad; she gets even.

WHEW!!! I finally made it through my first year of high school. I'm ready to conquer the world and show those "little" seventh graders how to live. It's good to see all those old and newly made friends again. I can't believe it! In physical science, they let us experiment with heat and fire, and I actually survived. I almost know the school like the back of my hand, but those upperclassmen are still looming over us. Next year I'll be a real high school student.

Finally . . . I'm part of a class that has a name. Now that I'm a Freshman, I actually got to choose some of my classes. I really learned a lot this year, like the major exports of every Soviet republic and how to form the past perfect progressive tense of any English verb. I can even order food, count and say, "Hello, how are you?" in another language. I managed to eat my own cooking in home ec- and I survived! I still don't know what I'm ever going to do with that little box I made in metal shop. You know, graduation seems so much closer now. I just hope I make it through in better shape than that frog we attacked in biology!

This senior high stuff is getting to be a drag. I had to endure a year of chemistry and a second year of my language. I got to watch so many disgusting, gory films in Safety Education I'm afraid to drive now. I had to sit through studying the respiratory and digestive systems just to get to the good parts of the course. Ths best part of the day was Mr. Dyson's stimulating lectures. I survived my first year of varsity football; I was bruised and battered and sometimes even depreciated. I can't wait for my turn. I'm almost there. Let those seniors try to boss me around next year! Ha! Look out!!

Upon returning from states, an overjoyed Lisa graciously accpets well-deserved praise.

I am there. I am going to be the top of the school next year. I got through five years of studying and homework. I hope senioritis doesn't hit me too soon, but I feel it coming on. I survived a year of Mr. Tobias's jokes and teacher's option. Computers began as my friends, but I learned to hate them by the end of the year. This year's research paper was the worst ever. Those teachers are so picky! I had fun at football this year, and next year will be great! Watch out world, here I come!!!

Becky's upset because no one saved her a piece of pizza.

It's amazing what one can find at the bottom of her locker.

Kim wonders if she must finish ALL her vegetables.

Brett waits anxiously for his girlfriend to return to the couch.

They'll Be Great In '88

Laura is surprised to see how big a large pizza from Sal's is.

Anne and Tara await the arrival of their Puerto Rican tour bus, while Crystal remains incognito.

After a long and tiring weekend, Wendy has her sights set on a good nights sleep.

The smiles can't be held back as these juniors realize this is their last year as underclassmen.

Mark amazes his friends by turning his brother into a Noxema can.

Jeff attempts to face the world after a tough weekend.

Todd tries to be inconspicuous as he leaves with a stolen box.

"These are just divine. Could you please put them in a box, dear?"

"The past went that-a-way."

Duane Earnest

Oct. 20, 1968-June 26, 1985

Life is eternal and love is immortal and death is only a horizon and a horizon is nothing, save the limit of our sight.

We, the Class of 1987, dedicate this page to our lost friends Duane Earnest and Erik Feinauer. Duane and Erik lost their lives in a tragic car accident on June 26, 1985. They will always be remembered in the hearts and minds of their friends, the Class of '87.

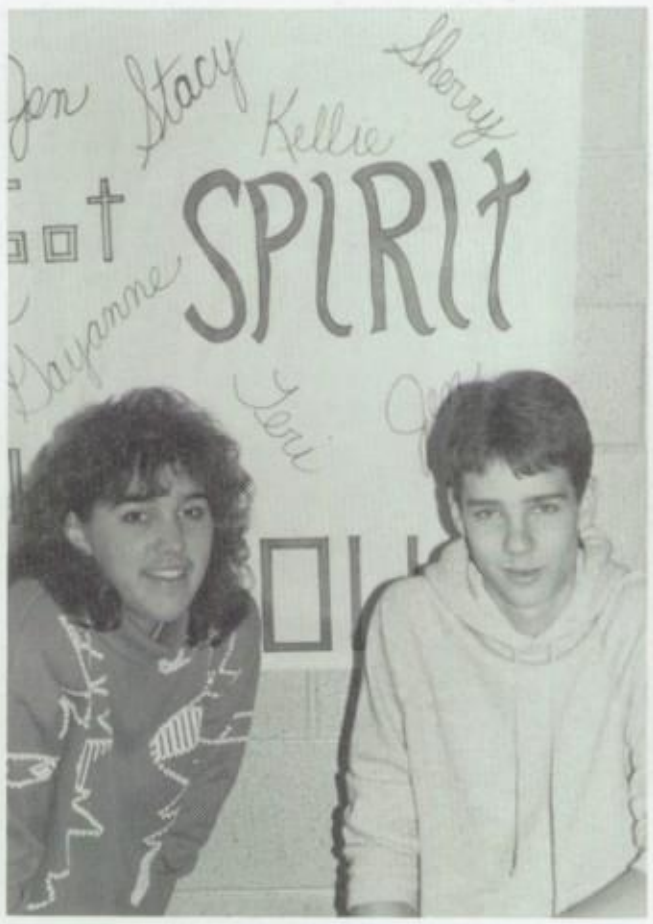
Senior Class: Picks And Pans

Cutest Couple- the school's overwhelmingly favorite romance.

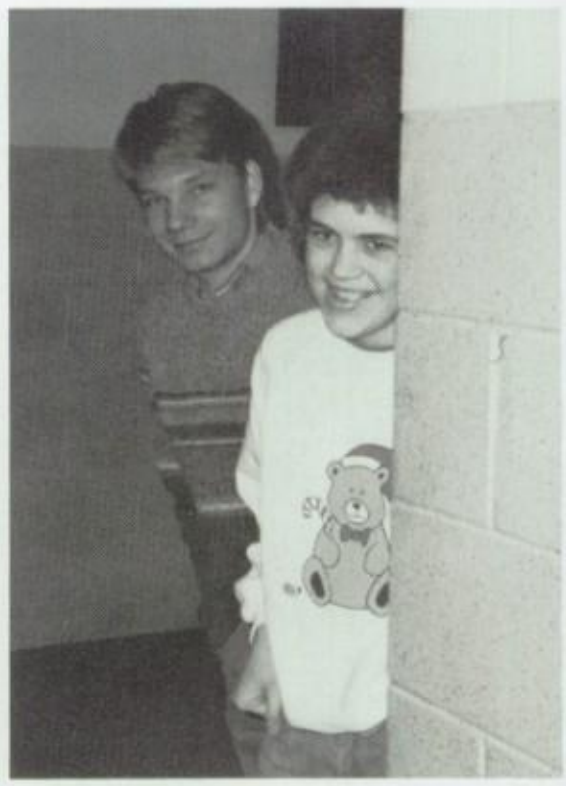
Best Smile- nicest sets of dentures in the entire school.

Office Seat Warmer- "Genius . . . has been defined as a supreme capacity for making trouble." - Samuel Butler

Most Artistic- "Indiviuality of expression is the beginning and end of all art." - Goethe



Most School Spirit- last of the old-fashioned die-hard Blazer fanatics.



Shyest- harder to spot than the Loch Ness Monster, this photo proves Alison Rutter and Rusty Keller really do exist.

Best Dressed- "All dressed up, with nowhere to go." - William Allen White

Fender Bender- Daniel Boone's 1987 demolition derby team.

Most Athletic- their six-year contracts expire June '87.

Most Cheerful- they probably could look on the bright side of nuclear annihilation.

Bookworm- "I cannot live without books." - Thomas Jefferson

Class Flirt/Ladies' Man- there's plenty of fish in the sea. They've dated most of them.

Worst Case of Senioritis- hang on for a couple more days.

Most Musically Inclined- will do bar mitzvahs, weddings, graduation ceremonies and funeral marches at a reasonable price.

Teacher's Pet- How much bribe money was involved?

Best Friends- "The best mirror is an old friend." - George Herbert

Most Likely to succeed- will they contribute a healthy cash endowment to Daniel Boone after making their first million?

Class Comedian- most dependable comic relief to break up those long, long classes.

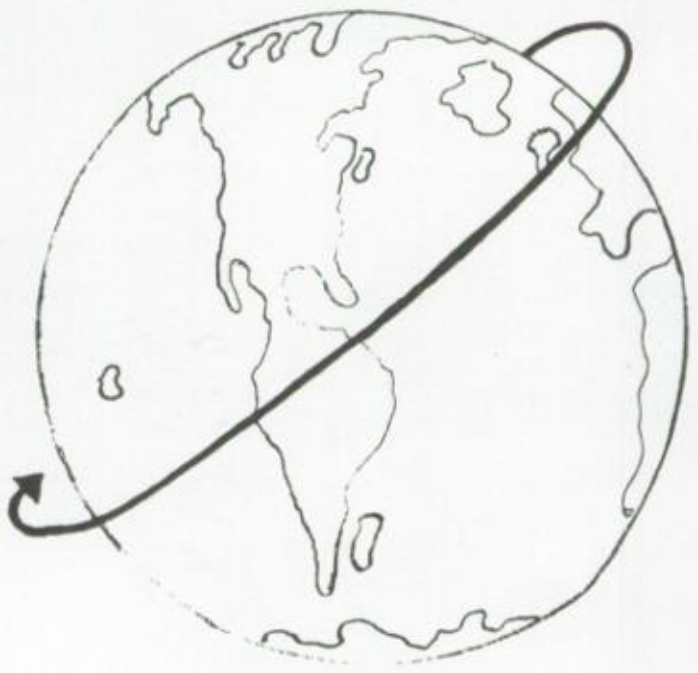
Current Events

News Affecting The Youth Of Today

Iran- The year 1987 gave birth to a recurrence of the Watergate scandal. It was discovered that President Reagan had been secretly selling arms to Iran for the return of hostages. Some praised the move, but most criticized his action because he was dealing with known terrorists. More fuel was added to the fire when it was revealed that money obtained from the sales was given to the Contras to aid in their fight against the Sandinista government. The executive branch was trapped in an array of untruths, misinformation, and false accusations. Congress appointed a special investigation committee to discover the truth behind the scandal. However, it is dubious that the real truth will ever be found.

Daniloff- Washington and Moscow came to an extensive agreement over the exchange of two supposed spies. Nicholas Daniloff, an accused United States journalist was arrested by the Soviet Union after the United States took action on a Soviet ambassador. Genady Zakharov was arrested as a Soviet spy and, while he was awaiting arraignment the Soviets arrested the American. This retailatory action prompted a series of conversations between Reagan and Gorbachev in which they tried to reach a solution to their problem. The solution found was an exchange of men with no charges pressed. Although it was not precisely a fair trade, each faction obtained their primary goal; the safe return of one of their citizens.

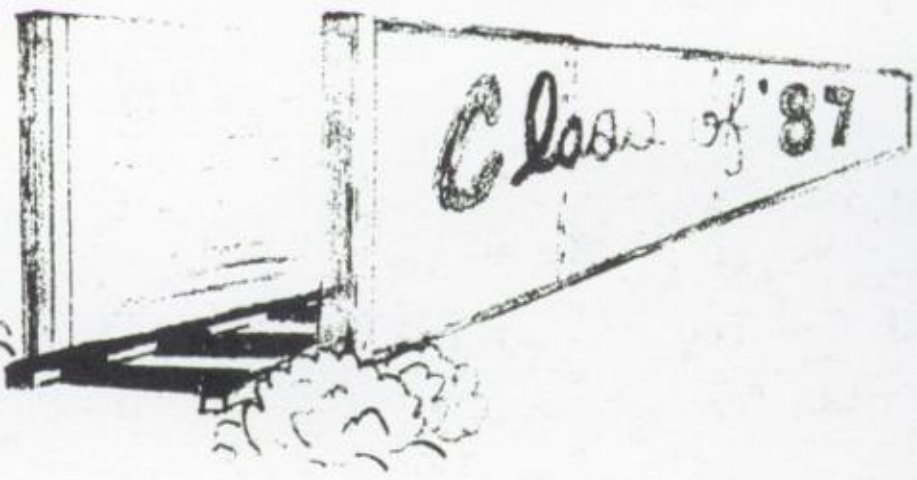
Voyager-Contrary to popular belief, the winter of 1987 was not all dark and dismal. There was a ray of hope in the field of transportation and aviation. The lightweight plane "Voyager" became the first plane to make a flight around the world without stopping or refueling. The exhausted pilots were received by an enthusiastic crowd when they touched down after a 23 day ordeal. Although some problems were encountered enroute, the crew persevered and achieved great prestige and honor for themselves and their country.



The bleak months of the winter of 1987 became more dismal after the death of Budd Dwyer. Dwyer was involved in a tax scandal in Governer Thornburgh's administration. While at a press conference before he was to be sentenced Dwyer committed suicide in front of numerous camera men and journalists. The community was deeply saddened by his tragic death and mourns the loss of this respected man.

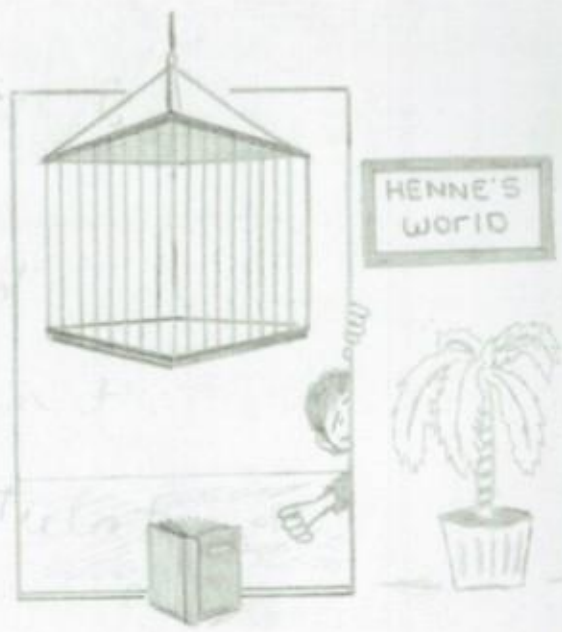
The winter of 1987 also brought two of the biggest snowstorms since 1978. Sixteen inches of snow were dumped on Berks County, causing most county schools to cancel classes for one to two days. The second storm dumped 10 inches across the county. Students enjoyed the break after several years of dry winters. Weeks after the storms, remnants of the blizzards remained to remind residents of the wrath that nature had unleashed on them.

The winter of 1987 brought the termination of a landmark for the Daniel Boone School District and its students. The infamous bridge spanning 724 that was home to class rivalries for many years was dismantled and torn down. In past years, the bridge served as a base for grafitti wars between classes at Daniel Boone. The destruction left a void on 724, as well as in many students' hearts.



The summer of 1986 brought long days, good times, and good weather. That is, except for the devastating "storm" that swept through Birdsboro and wreaked havoc upon the Daniel Boone High School auditorium. The high winds of the storm tore the roof from the auditorium. The torrential rains poured into the auditorium ruining the floor, chairs, curtains, and also the stage. The expected finish of reconstruction is not stated until June. Students became accustomed to assemblies in the gym and the absence of auditorium study-halls. Fortunately, the future classes at Daniel Boone will be able to experience the luxury of a refurnished auditorium.

Security System-Students at Daniel Boone will no longer be able to smuggle books out of the school library. A new security system was installed to deter, if not eliminate, the plague of book thefts. Students have attempted to find ways to foil the new system, but a foolproof way has not been found. The new system will eventually decrease the number of thefts and increase the inventory, allowing future students to greater enrich themselves.



Nuclear Arms Day-Daniel Boone High School achieved esteemed recognition by acquiring the most signatures on a petition calling for a national nuclear awareness forum with the President. Many honorable members of the surrounding community gathered in the school library to voice their opinions and share their knowledge to inform and enlighten students on the topic of nuclear arms. Students participated in a forum dicussion in which the speakers and members of the Daniel Boone faculty answered questions and expressed their views on nuclear arms. Students gained valuable knowledge and great insight into the topic of nuclear arms.

This year the Daniel Boone School District welcomed a new face to the administration. Dr. Rita Jones came to Daniel Boone from the Downingtown School District to replace Dr. Joseph Maniello as the superintendent. She brought many new inventive ideas to Daniel Boone and the district continues to thrive under her knowledgeable guidance.

Thank You For Your Support

Throughout the year the Orion staff has had much support from various school and community members. We would like to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of them. We could not have done it without the following: The Reading Eagle, The News of Southern Berks, and any students who supplied us with pictures; Mrs. Hart and the secretaries; Mrs. Kocur; John Powanda of Towne House Photography; Andy Santora of Jostens Printing and Publishing; DiScala's Pizza House; Melissa Hartline and Francine Effinger for lending a much needed hand; James Watkins for organizing our assembly; Mrs. Buch for her moral support; and the janitors.

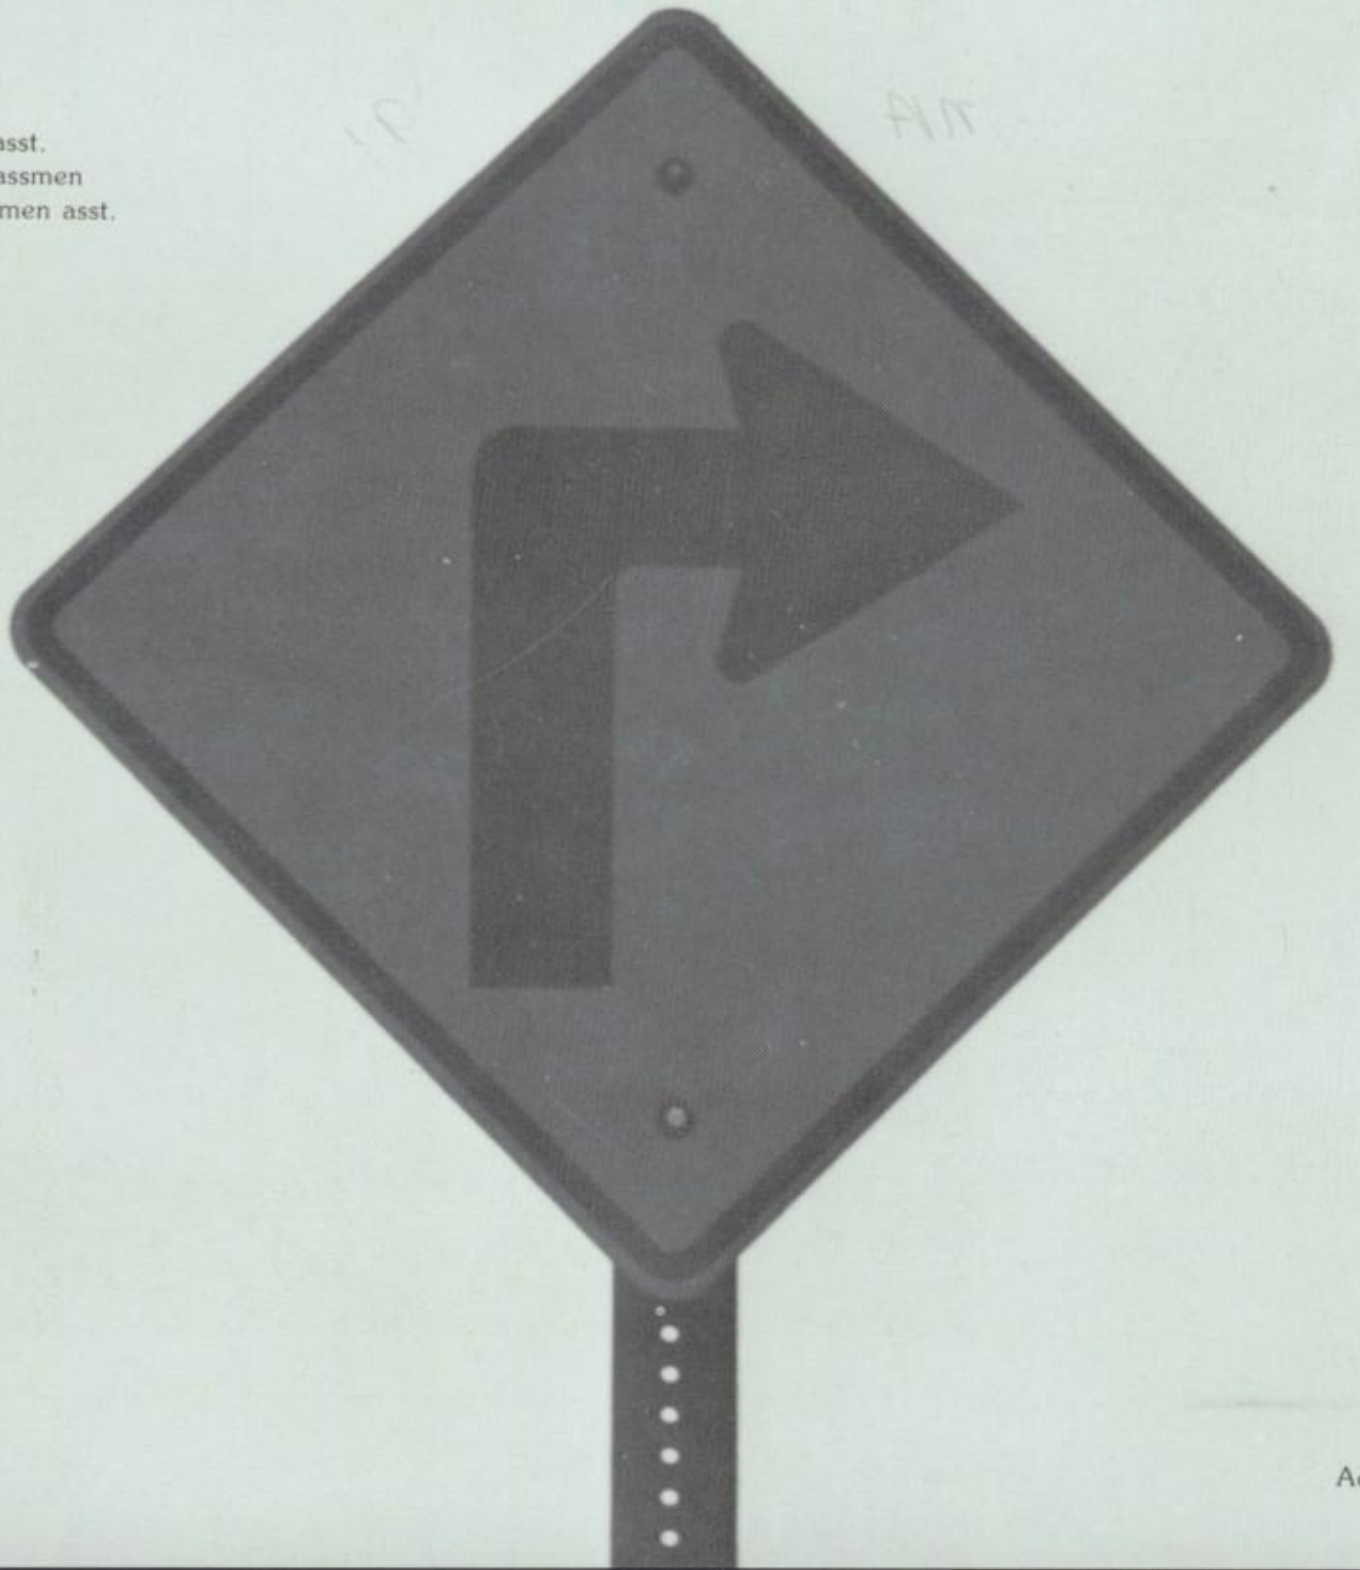
ADVISORS

Chris Gentile
Ann Taglieri

The summer of 1986 meant relaxation and the knowledge that there was no impending work to be done. However, the summer also brought the Class of 1987 the realization that their yearbook had no advisor. However, two very special people volunteered for the job, Chris Gentile and Ann Taglieri. Only two years out of high school themselves, they knew the importance of a yearbook to a senior.

Our advisors gave up much time, donated much energy, added a lot of enthusiasm, and gave more moral support than we thought possible. We wish to thank them for putting up with our sketchy attendance, procrastinations, and mad rushes to meet deadlines. Ann and Chris, without you, we never would have been able to even have a yearbook. We appreciate the last hurrah of our senior year that you not only helped us conceptualize but actually transformed into a reality. You will always be special to the staff of the 1987 Orion.



Rob,

To a crazy guy I got to know last year. I'll never forget all the study halls we had together. Thanks for always listening to me talk and helping me with my problems. I can't believe you're graduating. Congratulations! Good luck in your future years. Have fun at college. Don't party too much. Stay the way you are!

It is crucial that we recognize and apply the value of the exhaustive teaching efforts of the countless men and women dedicated to our education. That we retain the merit of our own fundamental experience is of equal significance. However, it is necessary that we continue to steadily reexamine ourselves and venture into untrodden fields. We must be able to thrust ourselves from our mold of scholastic mentality into a world in which competition and survival is of primary concern. Inevitably, we are to be pushed into a complex intersection of many diverging paths. With the guidance of our experience and the navigation of our knowledge, we should have the ability to plot the course through the maze of our future lives.

"Chance favors only those minds which are prepared."

-Pasteur

Rob,
To a friend who has really changed over the past several years. That change has definately been for the better. Remember all of the great times. The trips to play practice & your party after the play itself. (Sorry - I don't remember it too very well) This past year has been awesome — don't forget all of the great times at the lunch ad I am sure that if you decide what you want something, you'll succeed in achieving it. Best of luck in college

Your Friend of Yrs,
Jeff

Rob,
To a really nice guy.
I've known since 7th grade.
Never forget all our good times, like on the phone, and at parties. Best of luck in the future, and remember the bad-old days before my accident.
Good luck in your future and in college
Love

Rob,
So accept out nice just
I've known since
7th grade horsing around.
Remember all the fun
horseing around then
Sorry Ira was your driver partner. Good luck in the future. Love,
Marva

Rob
To a really nice guy.
I've known since 7th grade.
Never forget all our good times, like on the phone, and at parties. Best of luck in the future, and remember the bad-old days before my accident.
Good luck in your future and in college
Lupin

Rob,
To a wonderful guy I've known for so long! I wish I could have gotten to know you better! Remember teasing each other (don't forget your black eyeliner. Good luck in all you do. I hope to see you sometime. Remember me and stay in touch. And never forget to listen to the one and only David Bowie.

Love,
Deidre
